

CAN'T YOU SEE IT? a contest of consonantcies

from @BeyondWordplay

A consonantcy is a group of words or phrases which share the same consonants in the same order, with different intervening vowels, such as TOY TRAINS and ATTORNEYS (TTRNS). In consonantcies, Y is always considered a vowel.

Eleven of the musical artists pictured below have had a #1 hit on the Billboard Hot 100 chart, and form a consonantcy pair with another person, place, or thing depicted. (Some will pair with other artists.) One artist does not form a pair but has a #1 song which forms a consonantcy with the remaining image—that song is your final answer.

To start you off, we have matched ABBA with BABY, which share the consonants BB.

_____ recorded _____ which is “consonant” with _____.
